The Logo
of International Conference of Catholic and Autocephalous Bishops

The conference wanted the blueprint of a logo to be modern, fresh, and easily understandable to anyone. The classic logo of Ecumenism is a boat. Peter's words came to mind: "At your word I will let down the nets" (Luke 5: 5). The primary commission of a bishop (unequivocally represented by the pastoral staff, a reference to Christ the Good Shepherd) is to acquire and train men who can become and be an instrument of salvation for all peoples. The nets take the shape of a barely outlined boat, but they also almost seem to form a sort of embrace, as a symbol of our union, while maintaining our specificities. Last but first in importance, the Holy Spirit: it is He/She who leads our actions, it is He/She who has called us to work for unity, it is He/She who acts.
